FROM THE DIRECTOR

I hope you all had a blast this summer with our “Universe of Stories” reading program theme.

The books I read this summer didn't match the theme, but the important thing is that I kept reading. Some highlights for me this summer were Virgil Wander by Leif Enger and Circe by Madeline Miller. I also got swept up in the historic saga of Ken Follett's Century Trilogy.

We enjoyed celebrating the Library's 100th anniversary with birthday cake at every branch. I managed to get to almost all of the celebrations—that's a lot of cake! The celebrations will continue this fall with five regional receptions. I hope you can join us to honor the past and celebrate the future of library services in Jackson County.

With this issue of the events guide, we are thrilled to introduce our new logo. Developing a new logo is a conversation with the past and future, an attempt to balance timelessness with something new and exciting. In designing our new logo, we visualized libraries as a living, breathing, and evolving part of the landscape. We also thought about the natural beauty of Jackson County and wanted to bring forward the tree element that was featured on the logo we replaced. These pieces came together into the logo you see before you: a book in motion, the abstraction and connection of nature to learning.

A good logo becomes instant recognition—when you see it, you think of the company or organization it represents. Studies have shown that people begin to identify logos as early as two years old. We hope that every time you see our logo, you will think LIBRARIES, and remember the role that Jackson County Library Services plays in your life.

As always, we have a full line-up of special programs happening this fall at all of our branch libraries. I hope to see you at one of them!

Happy Reading!
